[redacted] At General Carter's request, I attempted to see Senator Kenneth Keating but in his absence from the city met with Milton Eisenberg. I pointed out that General Carter, on behalf of the Agency, wished to point out to the Senator that if the Senator had reports on Soviet troops going into Cuba we would be appreciative of receiving them. I pointed out that while we have a few reports on this subject we have been unable to substantiate these reports. Consequently, General Carter was hopeful the Senator would provide us with any information he has on this subject as well as more information on the sources. It was made clear to Mr. Eisenberg that this was a request from General Carter on behalf of CIA as opposed to the previous discussions which had been held between Mr. McCone and Senator Keating. As background on this point, I discussed with Eisenberg the President's memorandum to Mr. McCone of 16 January 1962. Mr. Eisenberg said he would take this up with the Senator and I indicated I might drop by personally tomorrow morning to see the Senator on this.

[redacted] Talked with [redacted] Senate Preparedness Investigation Subcommittee staff, who indicated it was planned that hearings will start next week on the nuclear test ban situation. I raised the question of CIA having an observer present during the hearings and [redacted] will raise this with the Chairman. [redacted] also mentioned the graph which has been requested from General Betts relating to yield weight ratios based on U. S. testing and that this chart will then be turned over to the Agency for an overlay of similar information pertaining to the Soviets.
